Files that need your attention

File	What we found	What we suggest
Old PC backup/Parish magazine March 2007.pub	LibreOffice could not open it	Send another copy if you have one. If it still opens in Publisher, save it as PDF there.

Your templates

Template	Format	File
Parish News (two-column newsletter)	Word, A4	templates/newsletter-two-column-A4.docx
Sunday service bulletin (folded booklet)	Word, four A5 pages	templates/service-bulletin-A5-booklet.docx
Certificate of achievement	PowerPoint, A4	templates/certificate-of-achievement-A4.pptx

Using your templates

- Before you change a template, use File > Save As and give the copy a new name, so the original stays clean for next time.
- Type over any text in [square brackets]. The look comes from styles on the Home tab (Heading 1, Caption and so on), so the layout stays tidy.
- To swap a picture, right-click it and choose Change Picture.
- Newsletter text flows between the columns and on to the next page by itself.
- Service bulletin: each page is a half sheet. The PDF whose name ends in 'print-booklet' is ready to print: double-sided, flip on the short edge, then fold. For a new week, save your edited copy as PDF and print it with the 'Booklet' option in Adobe Acrobat Reader or your printer's settings.
- Certificates: right-click the slide in the list on the left, choose Duplicate Slide, and change the name. Repeat for each person.

What to expect from the PDFs

The PDFs are faithful copies for reading, searching, printing and sharing. They are not pixel-perfect copies: some fonts were replaced with close matches, and special effects such as WordArt, shadows and decorative borders can look a little different. Files marked 'worth a quick check' are listed in the index with the reason.

Fonts

Your old files mostly used Times New Roman and Arial. The PDFs show these in free fonts with the same letter widths, so the text fits each page as before. One file is different: the 2021 reading certificate used Comic Sans MS, which was not available when we made the archive. In that PDF, the “Well done!” heading and the dotted name line are in a stand-in script font (Z003), so they look different from your original. The index notes this in the “Problem or note” column. The rebuilt templates use Cambria for headings and Calibri for text. Both come with Microsoft Office and are also available in Google Docs, so no paid fonts were needed.

Your data

- ☐ As agreed, we will delete every copy of your files from our computers and cloud storage by 13 October 2026, once you have checked everything, and confirm by email. We keep only this delivery note and the invoice.
